Typical Chipmunk Hole
Located In A Flower Bed.

STEP 1

Determine where they're living.
Chipmunk burrows are usually easy to spot:
They gravitate toward generally undisturbed areas like under patios, stairs, retention walls and foundations — and they can cause structural damage to these locations as well.
Look for small mounds of earth and holes.
Place your bait stations, baited with a place pack of Answer for Chipmunks,
near these mounds.

STEP 2

Put away competing food sources.
Chipmunks' penchant for hoarding and storing food for the winter leads them to steal and eat flower bulbs, grass seed and pet food, and they'll likely set up housekeeping near their "stash." If you keep these items in your garage or shed, make sure they're in airtight containers (and if your pet eats
outdoors, take up its food and water dishes after each meal).

Crushed Cayenne Pepper Flakes

● GOT BIRD FEEDERS?

Mix a little bit of cayenne pepper
in with the birdseed – birds don't have taste buds so they won't mind
a bit. But the chipmunks will!
